Memorial to
Rev. Maynard J. Geiger, O.F.M.

On Friday evening, May 13, 1977, death came swiftly to Father Maynard J. Geiger, O.F.M., longtime archivist for Mission Santa Barbara. The noted historian of California's mission era would have celebrated his 40th anniversary as archivist on June 3. The Mass of Christian Burial was offered in the mission he loved and served so faithfully by His Eminence Timothy Cardinal Manning. Entombment was in the Friars' vaults at the mission.

Born in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, August 24, 1901, the son of Joseph and Katherine (Kray) Geiger, he came as a youth to Los Angeles when his family moved there a dozen years later. Young Geiger enrolled in Holy Cross School and completed his secondary education at Loyola High School. In 1919 he entered St. Anthony's Preparatory Seminary in Santa Barbara as a clerical candidate for the Order of Friars Minor.

When he was invested with the Franciscan habit, July 15, 1923, he received the religious name of Maynard, which he used for the rest of his life, though his baptismal name, Joseph, was honored by its use as his middle initial in his signature. Upon completion of his philosophical studies at St. Elizabeth's in Oakland, he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop John J. Cantwell on June 9, 1929, at Mission Santa Barbara. The following years were spent teaching at St. Anthony's Seminary. Between 1933 and 1937, Fr. Geiger took advanced courses in history at The Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C., where he received his Ph.D.

Geiger's first scholarly work, published in 1936, was an annotated translation of the Relación de los Martires que ha habido en las Provincias de la Florida. Published as volume XVIII in Franciscan Studies under the title of The Martyrs of Florida (1513-1616) by Luis Gerónimo de Oré, O.F.M., the book was revised and digested and a new edition appeared a year later as The Early Franciscans in Florida and Their Relation to Colonial Effort. He then turned his attention to compiling a Biographical Dictionary of the Franciscans in Spanish Florida and Cuba, 1528-1841. Published in 1940, the volume contained sketches of over 700 friars who had labored as missionaries in the two areas. In recognition of his singular contributions to Florida history, on February 4, 1948, the Cervantes Medal Award was bestowed by the Hispanic Institute of Florida.

June 3, 1937, marked the arrival of Fr. Geiger at Mission Santa Barbara as the newly appointed archivist. He was to serve almost 40 years in that capacity. That record of dedicated service will be remembered by many professional historians and lay people alike, for he was ever ready to serve. It was his habit to answer all incoming inquiries in his mail the day they reached his desk. Each reply was written by hand in a clear and readable script.

As archivist, Fr. Geiger dreamed of a modern facility to house the archive of precious mission-era documents which had been accumulated at Mission Santa Barbara. That dream was realized, thanks to the hard work and generosity of friends and benefactors, when a new archive-library complex was formally dedicated on October 11, 1970.

During the years he presided over the archives, serving each researcher with patience and helpful assistance, answering each mail inquiry with dispatch, he continued to pursue his own research and writing. As a result, ten additional books were added to his personal bibliography. Most noteworthy stands his definitive two-volume biography of The Life and Times of Fray Junipero Serra, O.F.M., or The Man Who Never Turned Back (Washington, D.C., 1959). Critical acclaims won him the prestigious John Gilmary Shea Award from the Catholic Historical Society and the Henry R. Wagner Award from the California Historical Society, which also made him a Fellow of the Society. The year previous the Cross of Isabella was awarded by the Spanish government for his interpreting, through writing and lecturing, the cultural contribution of Spain to the New World.

During the years spent in researching the life of Serra, Fr. Geiger held fellowships from the Del Amo and the John Simon Guggenheim Foundations. He also published an annotated translation of Palou's Life of Fray Junipero Serra, (1955). At the same time, he served as editor for the Provincial Annals, contributing many important articles to its pages during his fifteen-year stewardship, 1938-1953, and regu-
Having completed his work on Serra, Fr. Geiger turned his attention to the history of Mission Santa Barbara. The result was two important works, A Pictorial History of the Physical Development of Mission Santa Barbara from Brush Hut to Institutional Greatness (1963) and Mission Santa Barbara, 1782-1965, a superb history of the famed mission.

Another major scholarly achievement was published by the Henry E. Huntington Library in 1969, Franciscan Missionaries in Hispanic California, 1768-1848: A Biographical Dictionary. This impressive work was hailed as “among the half-dozen most scholarly, useful and colorfully-presented volumes released to commemorate California’s Bicentennial.”

The last book to be authored by this prolific historian appeared in November, 1976. In collaboration with the distinguished anthropologist, Clement W. Meighan of the University of California, Los Angeles, As the Padres Saw Them: California Indian Life and Customs as Reported by The Franciscan Missionaries, 1813-1815, was published.

Not content with writing and publishing thirteen books, Fr. Geiger was a constant contributor to scholarly journals. His bibliography of articles numbers almost a hundred. He also wrote over a dozen pamphlets and brochures.

Up to his seventieth birthday, Fr. Geiger accepted endless invitations to speak before numerous historical groups and meetings. Much in demand, he was a lively and entertaining speaker, compact in his presentation, but always with something worthwhile to say. His keen sense of humor enlivened each talk.

The late W.W. Robinson attested to Fr. Geiger's marvelous sense of humor. He wrote:

Archivist, historian, author, and warm human being, Father Geiger enjoys nothing better than a bit of humor, even at his own expense. A favorite example is the story of the opening in beautiful quarters of Santa Barbara's expanding historical society. A newly named reporter of the Santa Barbara News Press, describing the event, stated that among the celebrities present on the occasion were the Rev. and Mrs. Maynard Geiger. When Father Geiger showed up at another important affair not long after, some good friend—and wit—said to him, “Where is Mrs. Geiger?” The answer from Rev. Maynard Geiger, O.F.M., was “She's home darning my socks.”

As his longtime friend and president of the Board of Trustees for Santa Barbara Mission Archive-Library, it became my sad task to clear his desk. In doing so, I found a portrait of the man clearly etched in the correspondence he had received in the past several weeks. The bulk of the letters were either appeals for research assistance on some puzzling historical question or letters of appreciation, thanking Fr. Geiger for his help in answering some previously placed query. The letters came from Rome, Madrid, and from all over the United States. One touching letter came from high school students in Glasgow, Scotland, addressed to “Dear Sir or Madam,” Santa Barbara Mission, Los Angeles, California, U.S.A., which the Post Office correctly redirected. They wanted “some pictures and information,” along with answers to six specific questions. The letter was marked “answered.” There was no carbon copy of Fr. Geiger’s reply, for such was not his practice.

However, in reading the last volume (Vol. 31) of his personal diary, a diary begun in 1934 and maintained faithfully, even on the day of his death, I found this entry under the date of April 24:

... The first thing after breakfast was to write a long letter to a class of high school girls in Glasgow, Scotland, about Juana Maria, the Lone Woman of San Nicholas Island, reclaimed in 1853. They had read
From the beginning of his career as a professional historian, Father Geiger was a productive scholar, writing not only for the public at large, but also for his fellow Franciscans. In preparing a bibliography of his writings, a basic dualism clearly emerges: he wrote on the one hand for a scholarly audience; on the other he wrote for the layman. Thus one finds that his authorship extends from heavily researched volumes to articles written especially for the general public. He served both his professional colleagues and the general readership with sustained commitment and production. Regardless, scholarship was always paramount.

What follows is not a definitive bibliography of Father Geiger’s writings. All his books, pamphlets and brochures, and articles are listed, but a number of his newspaper contributions are omitted, as are reviews of books. Most of the newspaper articles excluded are in the form of “news releases” rather than articles devoted in depth to a given subject. Less than two dozen such newspaper pieces have not been included. Other than those omissions, the bibliography is complete.

Several matters require comment for clarity in respect to the bibliography. First, Father Geiger wrote a large number of articles for two publications that may cause some confusion for a potential user. The Western Tertiary survived under that title from the date of its first issue, May-June, 1938, until the end of volume seven, January-February, 1950. During the last three years of publication under that title, Father Geiger served as a contributing editor. Beginning with volume eight, the publication was rechristened The Way, which was altered in 1960 to Way/Catholic Viewpoints. (The Way has been consistently used in citations for the latter title.)

After the latter change, Father Geiger began to contribute a column called “Western Vignette.” Since all of these columns were given subtitles (with one exception), these items have been listed as such in the bibliography.

Father Geiger served for fifteen years as editor of the Provincial Annals, during which time he made extensive contributions to that journal. These titles have been listed under a separate category. This grouping, under the title of the journal, follows the listing of articles he contributed to other periodicals. It was thought that this manner of organization would shorten a multitude of titles and yet provide the reader with a useful catalog of his articles in the Provincial Annals.
